

Why Work for Red Canyon?

We are a small business that works hard to recruit the most talented professionals in the industry.

If you seek a small business work environment with the challenges and variety of a large company, then consider joining the Red Canyon team. Our management style provides employees with attention not found in most companies. As a result of this personalized care, our employee retention rate is 99%.

"I have been employed with Red Canyon for almost ten years. Red Canyon places the highest expectation on its employees and in return rewards and acknowledges our hard work. By offering competitive wages, year-end bonuses, profit sharing, and access to exciting projects, we are able to recruit and keep some of the best people in the aerospace industry."
